*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 Raise the nightly rate modestly (e.g., to £120) – you're currently £53 below the cohort median (£154.60) while already booking 60.9% of the next 90 days, so a small increase can boost revenue without harming occupancy.
- 2 Add and list high-value amenities such as outdoor space, parking, and entertainment – these are missing entirely and are proven to attract more searches and higher-paying guests.
- 3 Upload a full set of professional photos covering bedroom, wetroom, private lounge, kitchen, and exterior – the current photo count is unknown, and strong visuals are crucial for conversion.
