*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 Add a detailed amenities list that highlights free parking, outdoor space, and entertainment options — this aligns with high-value categories and leverages the fact your nightly rate (£136) is 12% below the cohort median (£154.60).
- 2 Replace the empty description with a compelling 200-300 word narrative that repeats the 5-star rating, 128 reviews, 80.4% occupancy (vs. market 47.8%), and the 5-minute proximity to the city centre to boost SEO and guest confidence.
- 3 Rewrite the title to stay under 50 characters, lead with the strongest differentiator (free parking & price advantage), and include a location cue — for example: "Free Parking, 5min to City Centre — 3BR Home £136".
