*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 Your nightly rate of £411 is 166% above the city median (£154) while you have 22 open nights in the next 90 days; lowering the price by ~20% could boost occupancy and revenue.
- 2 The listing description is essentially blank, which hurts conversion; add a compelling 200–300 word description that highlights the indoor pool, hot tub, rural setting, and proximity to BHX/NEC.
- 3 No amenities are listed despite having high-value categories like outdoor space, parking, and entertainment; add these to attract guests filtering for those features.
