*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 With a nightly rate of £2803.0, 2572% above the cohort median of £104.90, and an occupancy rate of 22.8%, 26.1% below the cohort median of 48.9%, there is a significant gap in the pricing strategy.
- 2 The listing has 53 photos, more than twice the cohort median of 23, but the order and focus of the photos could be optimized to better showcase the property's best features.
- 3 With 69 open nights in the next 90 days, there is a huge opportunity to improve occupancy and increase revenue, potentially by £193,947, based on the nightly rate and open calendar days.
