Demand signal		10/10

*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 £5500 nightly rate is £5345.40 above median, yet occupancy 17.4% vs 47.8% market average
- 2 No amenities listed in property's metadata despite 201 competitors in cohort
- 3 Title lacks SEO keywords like 'golf' and '2026' which 83% of competing superhosts include

Amenity gaps guests filter for

- Outdoor access details missing despite indoor pool emphasis
- Parking information not disclosed in cohort of limited parking cities
- No entertainment system specifications listed

The indoor pool should be cover photo due to its unique differentiator status (only 7% of local listings have indoor pools). Showcase the full length of the pool in a vertical aspect ratio shot first.
