*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 With 63 open nights in the next 90 days, and an occupancy rate of 30.4%, there is a significant opportunity to increase bookings by 18.5 percentage points to match the cohort median of 48.9%
- 2 The nightly rate of £78.2 is -25% lower than the cohort median of £104.90, which could be attracting more price-sensitive guests and increasing occupancy
- 3 With 17 photos, the listing has fewer images than the cohort median of 23, which could be impacting the guest's ability to fully visualize the space and make a booking decision
