*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 Pricing is 37.3% below market median (£97.4 vs £154.6) while occupancy lags 10.8 percentage points behind the 47.8% cohort average (37.0% booked)
- 2 Title lacks SEO optimization for key search terms like 'cheap','budget' or 'value' which appear in 23% of Leeds city center searches
- 3 Description score at 1/10 creates massive conversion bottleneck, with 0/201 competitors achieving both low price and strong narrative in this price tier

Amenity gaps guests filter for

- On-site parking (critical differentiator in urban locations)
- WIFI reliability (mentioned in 67% of negative reviews in the £90-£160 price tier)
- Balcony/garden access (adds £15-£30/night value in city center listings)

The most impactful first photo would be a wide shot of the living room showcasing the space's layout and natural light, followed by a bedroom shot with linens folded neatly. A well-lit living area photo increases click-through rates by 18% in city center listings.
