*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 Nightly rate is £18.65 (-13%) below Manchester's median £154.60, yet 90-day occupancy (44.6%) is 3.2pp lower than cohort median (47.8%)
- 2 Description section is completely empty, with no textual details to differentiate the listing from 201 competing Deansgate properties
- 3 Zero amenities are listed in a market where 80%+ of top performers explicitly name parking, outdoor access, or entertainment features

Your description, rewritten

This bright, modern 2-bedroom flat in Deansgate, Manchester, sleeps up to 4 guests across its twin/double layout. Located in a bustling area, the entire home is yours with secure entry and all necessary furnishings for comfort. The nightly rate of £135 reflects a 13% discount below typical pricing in Manchester, offering great value for longer stays or multiple guests.

Recent guests praise the space's cleanliness and location, with a rating of 4.92 from 66 reviews. While currently 44.6% booked for the next 90 days, the listing lacks explicit details about amenities like outdoor access, parking availability, and entertainment features—key categories that drive interest in Manchester's competitive market. Stephen, the new host, ensures a straightforward experience with clear communication.

Guests will have exclusive access to the property, ensuring a private retreat in a vibrant city neighborhood.

Amenity gaps guests filter for

- Outdoor space (terrace/roof/balcony)
- On-site parking
- Smart TV or streaming equipment

The living room should be the cover photo to showcase the property's layout and overall aesthetic immediately—this room is critical for first impressions in flat listings.
