*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 Reduce the nightly rate from £191.4 (82% above the £104.90 median) to improve the 90-day occupancy, which is currently only 38% versus the market 48.9% median.
- 2 Add high-impact amenities such as air conditioning and a tumble dryer, and provide a basic essentials kit, to close the most noticeable gaps compared with competitor listings.
- 3 Increase the photo count from 16 to at least the market median of 23 and reorder so the living room balcony shot leads, adding a few lifestyle images of the neighbourhood and amenities.
