*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 Your nightly rate of £178 is 70% higher than the market median (£104.90) while occupancy over the next 90 days is only 37% (57 open nights), indicating price is suppressing bookings.
- 2 Add a washing machine (and ideally a dryer) to meet the expectations of families and longer stay guests; the lack of laundry facilities is a common reason for lower conversion.
- 3 Increase the photo count from 19 to at least the market median of 23 and ensure each bedroom, kitchen, lounge, and bathroom is represented; replace the current lead image with the striking exterior barn view.
