*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 Add high-value amenities such as outdoor seating, on-site parking, and entertainment equipment; with a nightly rate of £61.2 (60% vs median) these upgrades can justify a modest price increase and boost bookings.
- 2 Rewrite the title to highlight the 60% price advantage; the current title scores only 4/10 and misses the strongest differentiator.
- 3 Upload a full set of high-resolution photos covering exterior, living room, bedroom, and kitchen, and set the cover photo to the inviting exterior — the listing currently has an unknown (likely very low) photo count, scoring 1/10.
