*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 With a nightly rate of £169.8, 62% above the cohort median of £104.90, there is a significant gap to be addressed to improve occupancy, which currently stands at 79.3% for the next 90 days.
- 2 The listing has 24 photos, slightly above the median of 23, but could benefit from showcasing more of the cabin's interior and amenities to potential guests.
- 3 With 0 reviews, the listing is at a disadvantage, and increasing the review count should be a priority, potentially by incentivizing guests to leave reviews or improving the overall guest experience.

The Natural Swimming Pool photo should be the cover photo as it showcases the unique selling point of the property, and its serene atmosphere will likely capture the attention of potential guests.
