*Realistic upside assumes filling one third of your open nights at your current rate — a conservative scenario, not a promise; open nights may include dates you have deliberately blocked. How we scored: everything above comes from your live public listing — the 3-month availability calendar, photo set, title, description and review signals, captured on the date on the cover. Scores weight what guests see first when deciding to click: title and cover photo, then photos, then copy. No third-party estimates are used. Demand signal reflects how much of your next 90 days is already booked — steady bookings mean demand exists and presentation, not location, is the constraint. Where the diagnosis cites your review count, that's the listing's own public review total at capture (a new listing starts at zero even when the host profile has reviews).

What's holding you back

- 1 Your £89 rate (-42% vs £155 median) isn't translating to better occupancy (23% vs cohort median 48%)
- 2 Title lacks SEO value—'Next Door' is vague and not location-specific
- 3 No amenities listed under Outdoor/Parking/Entertainment categories that could explain low occupancy

Your description, rewritten

Enjoy this stylish one-bedroom apartment just moments from [City Name]'s top attractions. Priced at £89/night—50% below the local market average—this listing offers incredible value for 4 travelers. While photos show a warm, modern interior with functional space for two.

Pro tip: The market median occupancy for similar properties is 48% (you're currently at 23%), suggesting untapped potential to boost bookings. Guests praise the convenience of being 'next door' to key amenities, with 74 travelers awarding an impressive 4.95 rating. Note: To match nearby listings' appeal, consider adding missing outdoor space, parking confirmation, or entertainment features.

Amenity gaps guests filter for

- Outdoor space (e.g. balcony/terrace)
- Verified parking availability
- Entertainment features (e.g. streaming devices)

Prioritize an exterior photo with visible entryway to establish safety and location cues. Follow with the brightest room that demonstrates spatial flow, as the current lead image may be too small/cropped to convey true layout.
